

Heart Attack Analysis & Prediction

The aim of this project is to predict whether the patient suffers from high blood pressure, which leads to heart disease.

To start exploring this goal, I used a histograms model to display the total output the total number of infected 64%

Here we used the pie chart And it became clear to us that the percentage of males with heart disease was 59 %